Learning Outcome

Accurately exchange information about buying things in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can express how far or how near objects are.
- I can ask and say how much things cost.

Ask your partner:

- How often do you buy items on sale?
- What do you buy?
- When is sale time?

Let's Explore!

The ties are on sale? How much are they?

* You use "How much are ..." to talk about an item in the plural. You use how much is ... to talk about an item in the singular.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Can I see those ties?
Salesperson: These ties?
Sally: No, those grey ties over there?
Salesperson: We have a special on ties this week.
Sally: Really? How much are they?
Salesperson: These ties are on sale. Buy one and get one free!
Sally: Nice! I can get your father one and I can get one too!
John: You wear ties?
Sally: Sometimes. Can I try that one on? I like this purple tie.
Salesperson: That is a great choice. It suits you.
John: So, how much is that?
Salesperson: That's $39.50 for the two ties.
John: That's good, but it's a final sale. You can't return them.
Sally: That's okay. Do you accept credit cards?
Salesperson: Yes, we take cash or credit.

Learning Points

The Modal Can for Possibility

The modal can is used to ask and talk about what is possible.

Example: I can buy him a tie!

Examples:

- Can you show me those ties?
- You can buy this scarf and that tie.
- Can I try this on?

These and Those

Demonstrative adjectives point something out. You use these when things are close. You use those when things are far.

The demonstrative adjective goes in front of the noun.

these + noun (these ties) or those + noun (those ties)

	Demonstrative Adjective	Example
near (here)	these (socks)	These socks here are on sale.
far (there)	those (ties)	I want to see those ties over there.

You make the negative form by adding not to the verb.

Examples:

- Those socks are not on sale.
- I do not like those ties at the back.
