Let's Start!

I love shopping at the mall! Do you?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about free time activities or personal likes/dislikes in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- How often do you go to a mall?
- What do you do there? Do you shop? See a film? Have lunch?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about likes and dislikes.
- I can talk about activities that I do and their frequency.
- I can talk about free time activities.

Let's Explore!

John and Sally spend their free time* at the mall!

* "Spend" is a verb you can use with time.

 In your "free time" you can do any activity you want to do.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

John: So, Sally, do you like this coffee?
Sally: It's a bit strong for me! I don't like strong coffee.
John: The mall is quiet today. Do you want to text Peter to meet us?
Sally: He doesn't go to the mall often. He's with Vanessa all the time.
John: Text him anyway. He can bring Vanessa. She comes here a lot.
Sally: Okay. They're busy.
John: Let's do all of our favorite things!
Sally: Yeah, shopping for clothes, books and DVDs! This mall has great stores!
John: We can eat out - both lunch and dinner!
Sally: Then see a movie!
John: Everything I like to do in my free time!
Sally: Let's start at the store over there!

Let's Practice!

What are John and Sally doing today?

Learning Points

Free Time Activities and Routine Activities

Free time activities are things you do when you have the time.

They are not routine activities.

Routine activities are things you do every day or every week.

Free Time Activities	Routine Activities
go to the movies go for a walk go to a sports game listen to music go to a museum visit an art gallery go to a music festival	study shop for food go to school take the bus go to the gym eat lunch drive to work

Expressions of Frequency

To talk about how often something happens, you use an expression of frequency.

This can be an adverb like often, sometimes, never.

It can also be expression like a lot, all the time, when I can.

Examples:

- She goes to the mall all the time.
- He doesn't come here often.
- They eat in this restaurant a lot.
